GT RADIAL SUPPORTS AUTOKHANA ROUND 3 – YOGYAKARTA

Yogyakarta — known as the city of culture and creativity — became the stage for pure precision driving as Autokhana Round 3 took over Mandala Krida Circuit on September 13, 2025.

Far from its usual calm rhythm of art and tradition, the city echoed with the sound of engines and screeching tires — a perfect blend of culture and competition.

Slalom racing isn't just about speed; it's a mental game. Drivers must memorize a maze of cones and corners, then execute every turn flawlessly under pressure.

That balance of focus and instinct was on full display as Indonesia's best racers pushed the limits in pursuit of perfect control.

Among the standouts, Toyota Gazoo Racing Indonesia (TGRI) once again proved dominant.

Adrianza Yunial claimed 1st place in Class F (Modified), while Anjasara Wahyu took 1st in Class A (Standard) — both victories powered by GT Radial tires known for their precision grip and stability.

Their performance was more than skill; it was a masterclass in composure and teamwork. TGRI also secured multiple podiums in the Women's Class, Tandem Class, and Group F, reinforcing their position as one of the most formidable teams in the national slalom scene.

GT Radial once again stood at the heart of the action as the Official Tire Partner of the Autokhana series, providing tires engineered to deliver accuracy, grip, and balance — exactly what slalom demands.

This partnership reflects GT Radial's ongoing dedication to Indonesian motorsport, empowering local drivers to perform with confidence and precision — wherever the cones are set and the clock is ticking.

GT RADIAL AND YOUNG DRIFTERS DELIVER OUTSTANDING PERFORMANCES AT IDS ROUND 4!

The roar of engines returned to Meikarta Speedway, Cikarang, as the Indonesian Drift Series (IDS) Round 4 took over the track on September 20–21, 2025.

Under scorching asphalt and tight battle formats, Indonesia's top drifters went wheel-to-wheel—testing speed, angle, control, and nerves.

But this round wasn't just about seasoned pros. A new wave of young talents made a statement, proving that the future of Indonesian drifting is arriving fast.

Among the standout performers were Kingston (Akuma Team), Andhika (Team VRS), and Rofbel (JFF Team)—three rising drivers supported by GT Radial. Each showcased aggressive entries, consistent runs, and smart tire management throughout the competition.

For GT Radial, drifting isn't just sponsorship—it's a real-world testbed. The extreme heat, high lateral forces, and constant transitions push tires to their absolute limit, making IDS the perfect arena to prove grip, stability, and durability in competitive conditions.

By supporting both the event and its young drivers, GT Radial continues to invest in the growth of national motorsport—on the track and behind the scenes.

This commitment isn't just about visibility; it's about developing talent, advancing tire technology, and inspiring the next generation of drivers to chase excellence.
